

Ruth Eckerd Hall Annual Report

Message From The President & CEO

Dear Friends,

Our mission is changing lives through the performing arts and each year presents new opportunities to fulfill that mission, often in ways that may surprise you. I would like to share a few from 2025.

When the area was devastated by hurricanes, we instinctively aligned our resources with community needs, opening our doors to relocate events from facilities damaged by the storm, ensuring 7,000 graduates had a place to celebrate. Our staff brought in food and clothing for displaced residents from a nearby apartment complex that was underwater and the hall became a drop-off collection site for local charities. Meanwhile St. Petersburg-native, comedian Bert Kreisher hosted a sold-out hurricane relief concert on our stage to benefit Metropolitan Ministries. As a performing arts organization, we pondered what else can we do? So we gave away hundreds of tickets to first responders, power linemen, and out-of-work hospitality workers, providing an evening of respite during weeks of recovery. We breathed a sigh of relief that with minimal damage to our buildings, at least our community could still find a little joy within our walls.

On the evolving edge of our education programming, we continued to overcome a myriad of barriers serving students of all ages and abilities. It can require creating adaptive programs, investing in specialized training, or securing additional underwriting to provide supplies and teacher wages. Financial support from members, sponsors, and grantors make it possible and 2025 was no exception. For the second year, we brought music and drama instruction to a partner school, modified to meet the needs of dyslexic students. As part of our Raymond James Presents: Middle School Arts program, we commissioned a piece featuring dancers with physical disabilities, challenging assumptions about limitations, and reframing our perceptions of others.

These are just a few ways the mission unfolds between rock concerts, and they can be just as powerful as a fanatic crowd of 8,000 dancing in unison (which I witnessed at a recent T-Pain show). As our team looks back on what was a very successful year according to industry standards, perhaps what mattered most was being a caring neighbor, a community partner, a committed educator, an advocate for the underserved, and a welcoming host.

It takes a village to champion the arts. Thank you for being part of ours.

Community Support

Former Board Member Jealixson Jean-Simon with Hannah Hope and Teresa Hibbard enjoying In the Air Tonight Benefit.

Each year over 3,400 members, sponsors, donors, grantors, and volunteers contribute time, talent and treasure to close the financial gap. Their generosity ensures educational opportunities for underserved populations, accessibility to world-class entertainment at affordable prices, vibrant programming, and state-of-the-art facilities.

In 2025, membership fees, corporate support, grants, and proceeds from the annual benefit "In the Air Tonight", contributed $4M to the annual fund for supporting operations, education, and outreach. An additional $1M came from capital campaign and estate gifts, earmarked for future asset replacement.

Volunteers are an integral part of the organization's success, welcoming and assisting guests, performing administrative tasks, participating in committee work, and ensuring mission-driven leadership by serving on the Board of Directors.

We are also grateful to the wider circle of community partners who welcome our teaching artists, students, and initiatives. Their open doors and advocacy provide the opportunity to bring art alive to individuals where they live, learn, and play. Under strategic stewardship, these collaborative efforts optimize the impact of each contributed dollar, expanding the reach and depth of the mission.
